Red Cross Has Hurry Call For Funds

Food And Clothing Needed For Countless Thousands Of Refugees

With Sierra Madre's Red Cross $700 behind its quota there is an air of feverish activity about the chapter headquarters following receipt of a bulletin from Washington this week urging haste to relieve an acute situation in Switzerland where 30,000 French soldiers have been interned and countless thousands of civilian refugees fled with only the clothes they had on their backs. Greatest need is for clothing, the bulletin said.

The production committee of the local chapter is hoping to get the quota completed ahead of schedule that it may be forwarded as soon as possible to the regions where needed.

The Woman's Club is planning a "super-colossal" card party for the near future, the proceeds to be turned over to the War Relief fund. The date tentatively set is July 17.

Those Sierra Madreans who have wondered what they might give to the local Red Cross chapter when they had no money to give, will be interested to know that the Pacific Branch of the Red Cross recently received jewels valued at $1,500 with a letter which read: "I want to help the Red Cross help the refugees in Europe. Unfortunately I cannot, at this time, give money, but I hope that you will be able to convert these jewels into cash. I would like the relief to be for the French since the jewels were purchased in Paris." The jewelry consisted of ear-rings, a dinner ring, and a lavalier of matched diamonds and aqua-marine stones, set in platinum.

Three pups, a Scottie, a Boston Terrier and a wire-haired fox —all perigreed— were given to the Ocala, Fla., chapter by a kennel owner, to be auctioned for the Red Cross fund.

Tells Experiences On Stratoliner To East Coast

Stirring experiences of the round trip press preview flight to New York aboard the TWA Stratoliner last week, held the interest of guests who were entertained at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Coney, 120 South Baldwin avenue, Sunday afternoon. Mr. Coney who is assistant city editor of the Los Angeles Examiner, was among a party of newspaper representatives of the metropolitan press who boarded the liner at United Airport Thursday evening for the test flight to New York, where they arrived early Friday morning following a trip made at an altitude of 19,000 feet. After spending the day in Gotham they took off at 7:30 Friday evening arriving at United Airport at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Coney on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hall of Culver City, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hostettler and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miles of Beverly Hills.

Tennis Club Elects Officers; Plans Tournaments

Enthused over the excellent condition of the city park tennis courts since they were resurfaced, the Sierra Madre Tennis Club has reorganized and entered upon a campaign to interest every local player in the organization so that an interesting series of tournaments may be held between local players and visiting teams from San Gabriel valley cities. Just now a committee consisting of C. G. Huntsinger and Robert Holmes, L. A. County playground supervisor, is organizing a woman's group and a junior section for boys and girls.

John Senour is new president of the club, Douglas Williams is secretary-treasurer and Homer Tuttle has agreed to act as manager to arrange and supervise tournaments.

A ladder tournament for men is being arranged, with challenge matches to be played Thursday afternoons, beginning next Thursday. A ladder will be made up for senior players and another for boys.

"We hope the enthusiasm of the present members will be so contagious that all tennis players in Sierra Madre will want to join the organization, and will make possible a tennis club that will be a real credit to Sierra Madre," Mr. Tuttle said.

Gay Nineties Come Back Tomorrow

The affair is being sponsored by Mrs. Lee Shippey to whom all proceeds will be given for French relief. Assisting organizations are the Auxilliary of the American Legion, Eastern Star Social Club, Sierra Madre Woman's Club and Woman's Club Juniors.

Mrs. J. Milton Steinberger is supervising director; Ken Martin, director; and Art Dewey, musical director. Clarence Click, make-up artist of the Pasadena Community Playhouse, is in charge of make-up. Then in their order will come Jim and Bob, the Hot Foot team from Arkansas way; Lillian Barrett, the darling of Broadway in her rendition of "She May Have Seen

Council Told Why People Stay Away

Remedies Suggested For Admiteld Bad Acoustics At City Hall

Several persons in the audience at the last city council meeting let the council understand why more citzens do not attend its sessions. They cannot hear, or at least understand, what is going on, the council was told.

"I've been sitting here in the council chamber all evening," E. D. Robertson told the councilmen just before they adjourned, "and I give you my word I could not understand half a dozen words that were uttered around the council table. I desired to address the council on a matter I understand is before it but was unable to tell when the subject was under consideration."

LeRoy Davis also informed the councilmen that it is impossible for persons sitting ten feet from the council table to tell what is transpiring around it. Several other spectators expressed themselves in like manner.

Members of the council said they were aware the acoustics of the chamber are notoriously bad. Two remedies have been suggested; either that a loud speaker be installed or that the walls be deadened so that voices on the platform do not reach the floor as a conglomeration of sound. Also it has been suggested that the situation might be considerably improved if the councilmen faced the audience instead of each other. Under the present arrangement only the mayor or other presiding officer faces the audience.

14 Sierra Madreans Win Red Cross First Aid Certificates

Word was received from San Francisco this week that 14 Sierra Madreans have passed the First Aid Class examinations. Four received the advanced aid certificates—W. L. Hibbs, Vernon Udell, Robert Babbitt and Robert Newbery.

Blakeman, Mrs. Ida Annas, Mrs. Ruth Blakeman, Mrs. Fannie Sea, Arthur Johnson, Gordon McMillan and Walter W. Reid. The First Aid class is one of the Red Cross activities and the courses are arousing more interest than usual at present with the need for prepardness in every form being driven home to the public.

The certificates were forwarded to Thomas Schwartz, chapter chairman, with a letter congratulating him on the chapter's showing.

Two Families From Out Of Town Buy Canyon Park Homes

Two more out-of-town families who were entranced with the beauty of Sierra Madre canyon have purchased homes from the Cadmus Real Estate and are moving in this week. A home at 694 Sunnyside lane formerly owned by Ida Thonell, well known in the city, was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Leon O. Evers, of Altadena. Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lehman and family of Soutn Gate bought a home at 646 Woodland drive, formerly owned by Mrs. Georgia Scanlan. The Lehman's have spent several summers in the canyon.

SIERRA MADRE LAGS

FOR the first time in her history Sierra Madre is dropping behind in answering a call for help. We have not reached our Quota for war relief.

Many of our sister cities have gone over the top. We must have $700 more.

If everyone who has not yet given—if everyone who can will add to what they have already given—we can reach our goal. The need grows more terrible while we are safe!

Bring or send your contributions to the Red Cross NOW!

Spend Their Honeymoon In The Air

Two Doctors Buy A Plane, Are Married And Really Go Sightseeing

A flying vacation which included visits to 35 states and 300 landings, was enjoyed this year by J. L. Ewing of 50 East Laurel avenue, just returned from the experience.

The trip was also a wedding tour for Mr. Ewing's son, Dr. Paul Ewing of the Biltmore Hotel, and Dr. Mary Bigler, for the last 14 years a member of the staff of the Los Angeles Hospital, who were married in a Presbyterian Church at Winchester, May 27.

Mr. Ewing accompanied by Dr. Bigler and Dr. Paul Ewing left Los Angeles May 24 on the streamliner El Capitan for Chicago, where they boarded an airliner for Washingotn, D.C., with several stops en route. From Washington they drove to Hagerstown, Ma., where they took delivery of their specially built Fairchild airplane at the factory. From there they flew to the New England states and New York where they spent four days while Dr. Ewing attended the national meeting of the American Medical Association, where he read a paper on tetanus.

Later they visited Evansville, Ind., where Mr. Ewing spent 20 years as a druggist, and where they were extensively entertained by friends. Then to Bowling Green, birthplace of Mr. Ewing, and to many other Southern and Eastern cities. In Dallas they visited Mr. Ewing's sister, Mrs. Ida Francis and spent three days in Wichita, Kan., visiting relatives of Dr. Mary Bigler Ewing. All members of the party are experienced pilots and greatly enjoyed the trip. They returned home last week and will keep their plane temporarily at the Eastside Airport until a proposed hanger is constructed at Monrovia Airport.

START WORK ON $11,800 GRAND VIEW JOB

Completion of the Grand View avenue paving project began yesterday when a crew of WPA workmen arrived according to schedule and tore into the job for which $11,800 has been allocated. The section to be improved extedns from Lima street to Michillinda blvd. at the west city limits. That portion of the thoroughfare from the east city limits to Lima street, including the Little Santa Anita bridge, was completed under an allocation made in 1938. In the assignment of workmen to the job WPA officials said as many men as possible were drawn from this area.

Frank Biederman, Former Water Head Dies In Arizona

Frank Biederman, water superintendent of Sierra Madre for several years between 1910 and 1920, died suddenly in Florence, Ariz, Monday. While here he resided on old West Central avenue, now Sierra Madre blvd., and served a term as master of the Sierra Madre Masonic lodge.

Sounds Like Fairy Tale; It's True

Vacationists Gone A Month Find 5-pound Zucchini Growing In Their Garden

Believe it or not, zucchini growing in Sierra Madre if left undisturbed on the vines for one month from the time the bloom first appears, will attain an enormous size and a weight of five pounds. This interesting fact came to light this week when Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Barkman returned from a month's vacation and found in their garden at 40 South Michillinda not one but several zucchini which were this size. The plants had received no special care, nor did they come from special seed, and no one was more surprised with their size than the Barkmans.

Mr. and Mrs. Barkman left June 1 on a vacation which took them to Sequoia and National Grant and Kings River Parks, Sacramento, Yosemite and Crater Lake where they found 25 inches of snow on the north rim of the lake .Then to Longview, Wash., for a visit with friends, and Seattle where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Theo S. C. Coy before embarking for a ten-day trip to Alaska aboard the S. S. Alaska, where they visited principal cities as far north as Skagway.

It was there on June 21 that the Barkmans received their greatest thrill when they attended a picnic at midnight. In that 24 hour period there was only 45 minutes of darkness. At Skagway they particularly enjoyed a tour conducted by Martin Itzen, sourdough of the gold rush days who had watched the population of the city dwindle from 50,000 to its present 400 .

While the Barkmans arrived too early to witness the actual salmon packing they did have an opportunity to visit canneries which were preparting for the rush season.

Guilty Plea Entered By Mrs. Jensen

Former Deputy City Clerk's Plea For Probation To Be Heard August 19

Following a plea of guilty to two counts of embezzling funds of the Sierra Madre water department and falsification of public records, Mrs. Grace Jensen, former deputy city clerk, filed an application for probation in Superior court at Los Angeles Wednesday. Judge Frank Swain, before whom she was called for trial, set August 19 as the date for hearing the probation plea and Mrs. Jensen was remanded to the county jail.

Eight counts charging misappropriation of amounts aggregating about $72 faced the former official as a result of a superficial examination of the water books. Confronted with evidence of falsification of the books upon its discovery, Mrs. Jensen is said to have immediately admitted having misapplied water collections and to have told the system she used to prevent detection. When taken into custody she announced she would plead guilty and throw herself on the court's mercy.

Following a series of conferences of the city council and a meeting with a dozen or more local accountants Friday evening, the Frank Booth auditing company which has been auditing the city's accounts for the past two years and which has been engaged to make a detailed audit of the water department books, began its audit Wednesday.

As a preliminary step statements were sent out to persons carried on the water books as delinquent in their accounts, asking tehm if the statements of their indebtedness is correct and if not requestng them to bring in their last receipted bills.

Next step will be to check up the water accounts of the last four years, with the probability that the audit will continue back over the 12 years since Mrs. Jensen entered the city's employ.

City Will Prevent Sabotage Of Its Water System

An ordinance to protect Sierra Madre's reservoirs, pumping station and water system from sabotage is being drawn by City Attorney Walter Dunn under insructions from the city council and will be presented at next Tuesday's council meeting. In a general way it will follow the policy outlined at a recent meeting of all of Los Angles county's peace officers.

At the instance of Supervisor William A. Smith the county supervisors have ordered armed protection of the 13 dams of the flood control district.

Guards, deputized by the sheriff, will supplement caretakers who now make only sporadic inspections of the dams. The plan will provide 24-hour vigils.

Permits For More Homes Issued

A permit for a six-room, California bungalow to be built at 680 Auburn avenue, was issued to Esther Nelson of Arcadia. Harry Lange, president of the Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce, will build a six-room modern type house at 531 West Laurel avenue.

Dave Nelson has been issued a permit for a 5-room California bungalow to be built at 340 West Carter avenue. Harold Spears, local builder, is erecting a six-room modern house at the corner of Sunnyside and Laurel avenues.

A permit for the addition of a breakfast room to his present home was issued Charles Root at 685 Grand View. Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Askew of South Lima street are enlarging the living room of their home. Neal Mallard of Temple City is converting his property at 61 Suffolk avenue into a duplex. E. R. Dunn is building a pergola and lath house on his property at 58 West Carter avenue.

New Tile Front For Sierra Madre Hotel

The Sierra Madre Hotel is to undergo a face lifting operation that ought to go a long ways towards brightening up the downtown shopping district. Also the hotel interior is being remodeled to provide a spacious hotel dining room that will soon open. A chef has been engaged and extensive kitchen equipment has been installed.

Miss Helen Keating, owner and operator of the property, has taken out a permit which calls for an entirely new tile front, replacing the present stucco of the hotel and first floor store rooms.

Civil Liberties Is Supper Topic At Wistaria Gardens

The Sunday night supper program at Wistaria Vine Gardens will include an address by Judge John Beardsley, member of the Superior Court in Los Angeles, who will be introduced by Judge Edgar W. Camp. The subject of Judge Beardsley's address will be "Civil Liberties Now." Perley Poore Sheehan will preside.

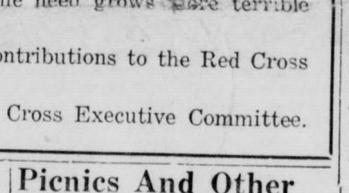

Picnics And Other Special Events At Summer School

WHEN I CAME TO SIERRA MADRE

By JESSICA H. WRIGHT

I DO NOT remember the exact year of the election in which I was badly licked as a candidate, but it was soon after the Woman's Club got under way, and we women were shedding sweetness and light and uplifting things in general in a really big way. At least that was supposed to be the prevalent idea, though, to be strictly honest—after this lapse of time it is probably safe to be so—there were occasional rather skeptical sidewise glances thrown in our direction by some of the older citizens, specially those of the sterner sex.

Mrs. Wright

N. H. Hosmer was the first person I met in this town and I cannot begin to properly tell about him in this story. But for a sketchy background: he was the Republican Poobah of Sierra Madre and there weren't enough Democrats here then to worry about—they were allowed to live but they didn't really give any anxiety at elections. (Them was the happy days!) N. H., who was one of the first City Trustees, and a very good one, carried the Republican vote in his vest pocket and delivered it at conventions. That was before the direct primary blessed our fair state.

He had been school trustee since there was a school here, I think, and this fateful year his term of office was expiring and he let it sort of ooze out that he did not wish to run again, "weary of the cares of state" sort of attitude. Later on I decided he was just waiting to be coaxed.

At any rate, the women took him at his word and decided a woman should be on the school board—there was something or other that needed the feminine touch; and for some ungodly reason they picked me to be the femme. My subconscious mind or intuition or something, whispered to me to decline the honor, but they urged it upon me as my civic duty, etc., and I finally agreed that, as Mr. Hosmer really did not intend to run, I would, but I wanted a personal assurance from him. We were good friends and I would not run against him. So I called on the gentleman in his real estate office and stated the situation and he gave me to understand he felt he had done his duty along that line and wanted to lay the burden down.

I was much younger then and not so wise in the ways of the wily politician and I thought I left him with his blessing and full approval of my candidacy. At a later date I recalled he had not actually said he would vote for me.

Everything seemed peaceful, no other candidates appeared and, as the average vote in a school electon with no contest, ran from seven to twelve, the feminine contingent went busily and happily about other things, food sales and parties to raise money for the

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Augstine Scannel in the presence of two hundred and fifty Southern California relatives and friends.

Wearing a gown of white net fashioned over satin with a bouffant skirt, quaint bodice and butterfly sleeves, a fingertip veil caught in a halo of orange blossoms, and a gold locket, the gift of the bridegroom, Miss Lorenzini entered the church on the arm of her father, John Lorenzini. Her only flowers were a white orchid and white bouvardia which covered her prayer book.

Miss Virginia Lorenzini attended her sister as maid of honor, wearing a frock of pink net over satin, and a piquant cap covered with pink blossoms. She carried a sheaf of pink gladioli and sweet peas and blue delphinium.

Bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Leoni and Miss Virginia Erickson, sister of the bridegroom. Both nuwere gowned in blue net over satin, wore tiny flower-covered caps and carried sprays of pink gladioli and sweetpeas. Jack Fischer attended Mr. Erickson as best man. Ushers were Arthur Lorenzini, brother of the bride, and her cousin, John Cordane, Jr. The wedding march and incidental music was played by T. Meader at the organ.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lorenzini, 611 East Grand View avenue, for relatives and close friends. Mrs. Lorenzini wearing a navy blue redingote with matching accessories and a navy blue and white hat and a gardenia corsage, received, assisted by Mrs. L. Erickson who wore a blue crepe bolero frock accented with light blue accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Erickson are now touring Northern California and upon their return will make their home in Monterey Park.

ADELE DOTY, HANS SEIFERT WED AT ASCENSION CHURCH

Dignified simplicity marked the wedding of Miss Katharine Adele Doty and Hans Georg Seifert which was performed by Dr. W. B. Heagerty at the Church of the Ascension Saturday afternoon, June 29. The church was decorated with Kentia palms which formed a distinctive setting for the wedding party all of whom were dressed in white.

To the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march played by Mrs. Frances Kitzman, Miss Doty entered the church with her father, William Edward Doty. She wore a dull sheer white redingote, a white halo hat from which fell a short veil and carried a white satin prayer book covered with one green orchid. She was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Doty whose frock was similar to that of the bride, and who carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli, roses, sweet peas and carnations. Herbert Seifert attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Joe Scalzo and Perley Cox.

Following the wedding a reception for relatives and close friends was held at Wistaria Vine Gardens, with Mrs. Doty and Mrs. Herman Seifert, mother of the bridegroom, receiving. The elaborately decorated wedding cake made by Malcolm Cavanaugh of Westwood Village and the bride's cake, decorated in pale pink and white, which was made by Cris Art of Hollywood, brother-in-law of Mr. Seifert, were cut by the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Seifert have returned from a trip through Northern California and are now at home to their friends at 373 West Sierra Madre blvd.

More Boys Eligible For CCC Enrollment Under New Rule

An important revision in CCC eligibility requirements has just been received from Washington, D.C., that will make enrollment possible to thousands of youths hitherto denied participation in the program and its training and educational opportunities.

Formerly, a youth could be selected only if his family's income or resources were "insufficient to maintain a normal or average standard of living." The new regulation now takes into consideration and allows selection of the youth who is "unemployed and in need of employment" even though his family's financial status is better than that formerly regarded as "below average."

A portion of the letter addressed to the State selecting agency reads as follows: "Well-qualified, unemployed young men are now eligible for enrollment in the Corps notwithstanding their families are not in need of the CCC allotment."

The Washington ,D.C., headquarters has called for 2597 young Californians between the ages of 17 and 23½ to bring California CCC camps up to full strength.

43 Kinds Of Birds Found By Society At Charlton Flats

The Los Angeles Audubon Society had a field meeting at Charlton Flats recently when 43 kinds of birds were obsereyd and recorded on the field checking list of the society. In the group were a mixed crowd of 75 persons of which Mrs. Caroline Daugherty was the field leader.

Charlton Flatts is just above Sierra Madre in the heart of the Angeles National Forest, 24 miles from La Canada, on the new Angeles Crest highway. This part of the Forest is still primitive and beautiful. We hope to keep it thus. Be careful of your cigarette, prevent fires.

BARRIES DEAR BRUTUS NEXT AT PLAYHOUSE

Would you turn the pages of your life in different fashion if given the chance to start the book anew?

James M. Barrie, via his famous play "Dear Brutus," which comes to Pasadena Community Playhouse, July 8-13, as the third Midsummer Drama Festival staging, asks a roomful of folk this question and, via the credible fantasy of an enchanted wood, brings the answer. Deeper depth of meaning is reached in "Dear Brutus" than in any other Barrie script and it has been universally accepted by drama critics as the Scotsman's finest play.

NEED MORE THAN ARMAMENT TO PRESERVE FREEDOM

By RALPH H. TAYLOR
(Executive Secretary, Agricultural Council of California)

FLYING fortresses, battle cruisers and mechanized columns can defend the United States against an invader, if this country is adequately prepared, but no military machine can guarantee the liberties of the American people.

That guarantee can come only from the people themselves; from their resolve to live and work together, intelligently and tolerantly, as members of a democratic community.

There must be ecconomic preparedness, moral preparedness; preparedness in the field and factory, and citzenship preparedness —if the people of the United States are to profit from the tragic experience of England and France and safeguard their liberties and democratic institutions.

France is paying now in the blood of her young men, and in an agony of calamity and uncertainty, for her national disunity of several years ago—for her sitdown and slow-down strikes, which paralyzed the French industrial machine and allowed Hitler to build tanks and bombers while France experimented with the left-wing Front Populaire.

When the idealistic but impractical premier, Leon Blum, took office, he sought to placate the Communists and their fellow travelers by making them part of the government; he raised wages and shortened hours, without regard to industry's ability to carry the load; he attempted nationalization of defense industries. But living costs and production costs soon outstripped wage increases; strikes spread like a contagion; unemployment increased; trade became stagnant— and government expenditures and taxes finally became unbearable. Blum's regime fell in April, 1938, but before it fell it paved the way for Hitler's march on Paris.

England, too, is paying a bitter price now, because her government leaders and her people failed for years to measure up to their responsibilities — because class jealousies and petty wrangling blinded them to the hurricane gathering in Berlin.

This country, during the past decade, has passed through a period of disunity, class warfare, bureaucratic excesses and visionary experimentation not unlike that in France and England. American bureaucracy has curtailed production by irresponsible decree and has sandbagged private enterprise by government-financed competition and drastic restrictive penalties. Strikes and civil war in labor's ranks have clogged production and thrown tens of thousands on relief, to be supported by already over-burdened taxpayers. Politicians have catered to the shiftless and indolent—and made demagogic war on the industrious.

Due to fortuitous circumstances, the United States still has time to put its house in order, if the people are sufficiently aroused to do so. Thus far, the Atlantic and Pacific oceans have protected us from the full consequences of our own folly, but economically we have paid a terrific toll for departing from the principles of a democracy.

If this country is to be fully prepared against invasion by propaganda; if it is to maintain respect throughout the world for democratic processes; if it is to solve its economic problems and put its people back to work — then the sober, thoughtful people of America need to bury past differences, real or fancied, and take firm hold of their job of self-government.

WE'RE NATION OF AMUSEMENT CRAZY SOFTIES STANFORD PREXY TELLS EDITORS

"Americans have become a nation of amusement crazy softies, refusing to give any thought to the necessity for hard work to acomplish great things, while seemingly concentrating every effort towards bigger and better entertainment features and pleasures," President Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford University told a midyear conference of California newspaper editors on the college campus last week. The gathering is an annual affair sponsored by the California Newspaper Publishers Assn., but probably never before had the head of this great institution of learning spoken more vigorously.

Members of his audience including F. E. Doucette, editor of the Ontario Herald, were deeply impressed. Says Doucette:

"The tall, serious Doctor who has already reached retirement age, yet at the request of the board still continues as head of this great institution, was perhaps never so serious in his life as he proceeded to tell his listeners what was wrong with them and all the people of this peace-loving democracy who, in order to better demonstrate their much-boasted freedom, would not agree on even the simple things of life, and thus required, in his estimation, an examination of their heads. He intimated that we are on a nation-wide strike against using our brains, which he pointed out was the most useful, yet least used, part of our body.

"The good Doctor charged that if we did not mend our ways immediately, unite against a common enemy, and forego our exaggerated demands for amusement and pleasure, we would find ourselves living under a far different form of government than we now enjoy and too soon for our own comfort. The Doctor was visably worried over world conditions as we face them today, and left little doubt in the minds of his listeners that in his opinion, we, as a nation gone soft, had paid little or no attention to the age-old advice that 'Eternal Vigilance Is The Price of Peace,' without which there is no peace."

Rose Slip Planted 28 Years Ago Is A Monster Now And Covered With Blooms

It isn't often that one carries a rose slip four hundred miles before planting, then 28 years later knows the pleasure of seeing the hug hbush over 20 feet wide and 10 feet high which has grown from the tiny slip, completely covered with exquisite pure white roses. Yet this is the experience which came to one of Sierra Madre's oldest residents when he celebrated his 80th birthday recently.

The bush, which would be considered a wonder in any community, is growing in the W. W. Baird garden, 305 East Laurel avenue, and comes from a slip he brought home 28 years ago from San Jose, during one of his trips up the coast as a wholesale drug salesman.

Now it is one of the two treasures prized by Mr. Baird who has been a resident of Sierra Madre for the last 37 years. The other is a block print of the old Tun Tavern, where the first Masonic lodge in America was organized in America in 1734. This print is from the press of Benjamin Franklin, and was once the property of J. Pierpont Morgan, Sr., coming from him to Dr. W. E. Hale of Pennsylvania, who later give it to Mr. Baird.

HARD RIDING POLO AT RIVIERA SUNDAY

Eph Griffin's Ranch 77 Texas polo squad will tangle with a Riviera four in another high powered mallet fray Sunday afternoon at Riviera Country Club. In their first clash of the season Riviera defeated the Texas lads but last week the visitors turned the tables by galloping into a 9-7 victory the teams put in a full six periods of hard riding that kept the game at white heat throughout.

Snowy Baker, equestrian head of Riviera, will stage hunting competitions Sunday as training for the third annual Riviera Horse Show, July 20th and 21st.

LOOK BEHIND YOU, SAM!

When printed in Braille type for use of the blind, "Don Quixote," the famous satirical novel, fills 12 volumse and weighs more than 40 pounds.

A small earthquake shook the Americas the other day when President Vargas of Brazil delivered a speech which sounded suspiciously like a salvo for dictatorships. The "good neighbor" policy has wisely stressed the solidarity of the Americas, their common interest in defending this hemisphere against the threat of foreign invasion. But that policy, perhaps unwisely, has not also made clear that the Latin American nations are not democracies in our sense of the word, that their traditions and culture stem from the monarchies, and not the republics, of Europe, that strong, paternalistic governments are still the rule, not the exception, below the Rio Grande. None of these facts disputes the need of a firm, united policy by all the Americas against foreign aggression. Whether the countries of South America are absolute monarchies, socialist states, or theocracies, it would still be essential for the United States, in the interests of national security, to rigorously oppose aggression by foreign powers in this hemisphere. President Vargas may have uttered an unwise speech. He has done nothing to alter our adherence to the Monroe Doctrine.

In drilling a salt well near Centerille, Pa., in 1840, John Criswell struck natural gas at a depth of 700 feet. This marked the beginning of the use of natural gas for industrial purposes in the United States.

Proving that the United States is one democarcy capable of locking the door before the horse is stolen, this government has informed European powers in clear language that this nation will refuse to recognize the transfer of any territory in the Western hemisphere from one non-American power to another. The Senate has given unanimous approval to this policy. Meanwhile, Senator Connally of Texas proposes that the United States occupy, now, the French-owned islands scattered through the West Indies. They are worthless today to the crushed empire of France, but they are far from valuless to us Thev lie athwart our maritime lifeline, the Panama Canal linking America's two great oceans. As booty of Germany's conquest of France, these French possessions are a trouble zone while they remain unprotected. The alternative is to wait and see what Germany proposes to do about them. Since this nation's policy is one of unalterable opposition to the transfer of these islands to any non-American power, it would seem the better part of wisdom to take them in trust now, with the approval of Pan-American republics, and lock the door before the horse is stolen—and before the necessity of fighting for them is thrust upon us.

Los Angeles made the remarkable record in 1939 of launching more new units of contruction than any other city in the nation. Los Angeles County did the same thing with respect to county areas, achieving a triumph in setting a home building pace.

Elections during 1940 will cost Los Angeles taxpayers at least a million and a half dollars, there being three county-wide elections in addition to numerous sectional elections. General elections were the May 7 presidential primary, the primaries scheduled for August 27 and the general election on November 5. "Until a few years ago there were but six parties appearing on ballots," Kerr observed. "In the last several years two more were added. This year the ballots will contain spaces for the Republican, Democratic, Communist, Prohibition, Progressive and Townsend parties. Approximately 30,000 persons work on the 5,000 or more election boards at major elections. Each receives $8 per day for services or $720,000 for the three elections. In addition is the $8 per day rental for the polling places plus the additional costs at the registrar's office in preparation of sample ballots and their mailing costs."

Beware the fifth column racketeer! Arrests already have been made of persons who have mulcted victims of funds to support a "California Americanism League." The Department of Justice has fortunately just set up a unit in California to combat self-appointed agents, anxious to "defend" America against fifth columns for a price. The FBI is fully competent to deal with subversive elements. No citizen needs to "pay for protection."

Recent investigation having disclosed that many of the older and more exclusive sections of San Marino, including the Oak Knoll district, are unrestricted as to ownership or occupancy by other that white or Caucasian race has San Marineans in a dither. Rumors that the home of Parker Lyon in ritzy Virginia Road was to be purchased by a negro religious cult started the investigation which revealed that such exclusive neighborhoods as Oak Grove, Virginia Road and property south of the city limits of Pasadena are absolutely unrestricted and that racial regulations in much of the territory north of Huntington drive will expire in the next few years. As a result of the disclosures, San Marineans are vigorously circulating petitions for piedges by property holders to restrict ownership or residence by Negroes or Orientals throughout the city, as is being done in Pasadena, Arcadia, Monorvia and many other San Gabriel valley cities. Sierra Madre is without any restrictions whatever.

Just when the neighboring town of Glendora cracked down on pinball games, pool halls and other "amusements," Azusa's city council by unanimous vote adopted an ordinance legalizing pinball machines, to pay an annual license fee of $75, but license will be granted only for three-month periods.

Steadily the Pacific shrinks. California, gateway to the Orient and the lands "down under," is today nearly two weeks closer to New Zealand. Full approval of the Civil Aeronautics Authority has been given to the 75-passenger clipper ships to operate over the 8000 mile route. They'll cover in four and one-half days a distance which now requires 17 by steamer. Once a big ocean, the Pacific is fast becoming only a big lake!

The United States and Canada are moving toward an eventual union, believes Dr. George McBride, professor of geography on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California. Economic, cultural and geographical forces will some day result in political union, the professor says, though he makes no prediction of the length of time necessary for its accomplishment ."A union between the United States and Canada will come about, not through imperialistic expansion on the part of either country, but by a simple process of growing together," Dr. McBride declares.

The Book Of Jonah.

GOD SAID TO JONAH, "GO TO THE CITY OF NINEVEH. WARN THE PEOPLE THAT I WILL DESTROY THEIR CITY UNLESS THEY REPENT THEIR WICKEDNESS." JONAH DID NOT WANT TO WARN THEM. THEY WERE NOT HEBREWS. HE RAN AWAY IN A SHIP SAILING TO TARSHISH. A GREAT STORM AROSE.

THE CAPTAIN FOUND JONAH ASLEEP. "GET UP!", HE CRIED, "PRAY TO YOUR GOD TO SAVE US." JONAH SAID, "THROW ME INTO THE SEA AND THE STORM WILL CEASE." THE FRIGHTENED SAILORS TRIED FIRST TO SAVE THE SHIP. WHEN THEY COULD NOT, THEY THREW JONAH INTO THE SEA.

GOD SENT A GREAT FISH WHICH SWALLOWED JONAH. JONAH PRAYED TO GOD AND GOD HEARD HIM. AFTER THREE DAYS THE FISH CAST JONAH UPON DRY LAND. JONAH HURRIED TO NINEVEH. HE GAVE THE PEOPLE GOD'S MESSAGE. THEY REPENTED THEIR EVIL WAYS. GOD FORGAVE THEM.

The Story Of Jonah.

JONAH SAT UNDER AN ARBOR AND CRIED, "LORD, YOU ARE MERCIFUL AND SLOW TO ANGER." GOD MADE A VINE TO SHADE JONAH. A WORM DESTROYED THE VINE. JONAH WAS ANGRY. GOD SAID, "YOU ARE ANGRY BECAUSE THE VINE IS DESTROYED. YET YOU WANTED ME TO DESTROY A CITY FULL OF PEOPLE."

CONTINUED DECREASE IN SCHOOL ENROLLMENTS HELD A CERTAINTY

There were 481 children in average daily attendance reported for the Sierra Madre City elementary school district during 1938-39, while in 1931-32 there were 387 children in average daily attendance, according to state apportionment reports, says California Taxpayers' association, which says there has been a downward trend of public school enrollments in the State.

First grade enrollments in California public schools have declined almost steadily since the peak first grade enrollment of 142,385 in 1927-28 — when the large post-war crop of babies born in 1921 entered the first grade, the association said. This large class of children, as they progressed through the school system, have swelled total day school enrollments throughout the decade just completed and in 1938-39 made up the largest 12th grade enrollment, 68,937, in the history of the state. However, despite the large increases in population in the state which have occurred, enrollments in the first grade have declined until in 1938-39 there were only 112,021 children enrolled in the first grade—30,000 fewer children than there were in 1927-28.

The 131,543 children who entered the first grade in 1931-32, together with those of school age who were added to school enrollments because of migration into the state, resulted in the 97,880 enrolled in the eigth grade in 1938-39. In 1932-33 there were 121,179 children enrolled in the first grade in California's public schools; these children resulted in the 96,394 children in the seventh grade in 1938-39, and will progress to an estimated 95,665 enrollment in the eighth grade in the current year and to a 76,220 enrollment in the 12th grade in 1943-44. The association's forecast of enrollments assumes the same rate of total population growth during the next six years as prevailed in the preceding six years.

Declines in school enrollments, the association stated, reflect the declining birth rate over the United States as a whole. They are not primarily related to the depression or the war in Europe; they started in 1922.

"These decreasing first grade enrollments throughout California mean three things," the association declared. "First, enrollments in all the elementary grades have passed their peak; there will be fewer children in the elementary grades' over the state as a whole, in the next few years. Second, junior high school enrollments reached their peak in 1938-39, and are now decreasing. Third, high school enrollments are almost at their peak and will start a long downward trend in 1941-42.

"In terms of expenditures by the public schools, these decreased enrollments, except in those communities where population increases are concentrated, mean that:

"1—If your district has enough room for its present enrollment, it won't need additional building in the immediate future.

"2—If your district has enough teachers this year, it won't need any more next year.

"Facts, accompanied by vigorous taxpayer demand are about the only things which can be used to bring school costs within the ability of the people to pay for them," the association declared. "A 10 per cent reduction in school costs can be secured—without in any way harming the children to be educated—if the taxpayer will go after it. On the whole, school enrollments are almost stationary —we won't be needing more school houses or additional teachers for several yars to come — the children just haven't been born."

FIRE FLAMES

By One of the Boys

All the firemen were present at our meeting and drill Friday, but not to have Pat Harlan there looks as though that challenge of his and his forest crew to a bowling match was just a little weak. Pat as we all know is District Forest Ranger and a mighty fine fellow as well as a very handsome chap—a regular picture book Ranger. We love the old soul and would hate to have him as an enemy. However, we do wonder how in the world such a bowling team as his ever won a prize in a bowling tournament. It is either because the class of teams they opposed were poor or that the Sierra Madre firemen's team is even better than rated. Our rating comes from our own members of course and to hear that the team that failed to even cause our team to shift into second gear won a championship certainly raises our rating. The Sierra Madre boys love to bowl and have continuously hesitated about challenging the forestry men because of their embarrassment. But if Harlan and Cyester insist, I presume it would be only courtesy to accommodate them and again show them that winning from the league championship does not make them the best bowlers in the fire service.

Before the next bowling match comes along we want to tell our citizens what a fine bunch of fellows these forestry men are. They must lie awake day and night listening for our siren to sound. The alarm never sounds in Sierra Madre that these boys fail to answer. Knowing that our trucks are out, they immediately drive one of their tankers to our station and "stand by." This is no small favor of these men and our fellows greatly appreciate their cooperation. The success o' fighting fires in the mountains has been much due to this cooperation. Thanks to "Pat" and his boys.

Feared Tragedy Ends In Happier Key; Forest Rangers See Moral

What was feared for a time might be a tragedy fortunately ended on a happier key when Richard Bower, 19, was reunited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Bower of Sierra Madre after they lost each other on a hike in the Chilao area Sunday.

According to Millard Cyester, forest ranger, Mr. and Mrs. Bower were to hike to Mt. Waterman while Richard hiked down to Devil's Canyon. Since both trips would take about the same length of time, they agreed they would meet in their car in Chilao. However, Richard decided to go on to Twin Peaks. When he returned to Mt. Waterman, on his way back to Chilao, he realized that since it was 9 p.m. he had better stay for the night.

His parents, who waited for him at Chilao until after 9 ,reasoned that he had remained in the mountains and were not particularly alarmed since Richard was familiar with the country and an experienced hiker, so they returned home. However, when he did not return Monday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Bower called the forest station and asked help in locating the missing youth.

At 2:45 p.m. a man was dispatched to search for him, equipped with a short wave radio in case the boy was hurt and help was needed to bring him back to camp. But, in the meantime, word came from the prison camp at Chilao that Richard had reported there. The problem then was to save the ranger sent to find him, a long and fruitless search. By means of a horn blown up and down the canyon, he was reached at Mt. Waterman, and sensing what must have happened returned to his station.

The moral of this story, says Ranger Cyester, is that hikers should go in pairs so that if one is hurt the other can go for help. Also it would make the forest ranger's life easier if hikers would always stop at the lookout station and tell the rangers where they are going—and then go there.

Arcadia Beats All Other Cities In Ten Year Growth

Arcadia's rapid increase in population ,as revealed by the recent census, was a greater gain than that of any Los Angeles County city. It's increase was 74.6 per cent while 40 other Los Angeles towns had an average census rise of 26.6 per cent. Arcadia's population has risen from 5216 in 1930 to 9112. Monrovia has gained from 10,890 in 1930 to a present population of 12,784.

In spite of the wonders he saw on his itinerary, Mr. Froehlich said, "the trip up the Hunson River was the highlight of our trip."

Radio Bomb May Upset Warfare

Inventor Visiting Here Says Dearth Of Ideas, Not Knowledge, Hinders Allies

Major Harold W. Webbe, inventor and holder of patents on a radio controlled bomb that is expected to revolutionize aerial warfare is in Sierra Madre, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barrett of Morton avenue. He has just returned from a conference with high Allied military authorities, where he was forced to present his invention as a private citizen, not as an emissary of the United States Government, because of the neutrality law.

The radio controlled bomb which Major Webbe has patented may be similar to the mystery weapon to which the Nazis allude. It has been learned in high military circles in Washington that the German Navy destroyed the Royal Oak, British ship at Scapa Flow—not from within the harbor but anchored outside the harbor—by means of a radio controlled torpedo bomb that skimmed along the surface of the water to its target. The torpedo bomb was seen from the conning tower of an allied ship.

Webbe's plan is to convert obsolete planes into radio controlled bombing planes by means of his invention; but instead of sending the planes into enemy territory by radio and bringing them back —along the line of present experiments— he would send scrapped planes at first, and later ,only planes constructed for the sole purpose of reaching the target. They could then be destroyed with the explosion and would not have to return, the obvious advantage being that a plane constructed for a one way trip is a vastly cheaper plane to build than a regular radio controlled army bomber.

When asked what the potential distance of these bombs was, Major Webbe replied that they could travel as far as the human voice, carried by radio, since the principle of the bomb is basically the same. Inconcievable to the layman, this bomb is controlled by tone vibrations with tuning forks. And not only can it be guided from a ground base, but —once in the air—by means of radio beam, similar to the present methods used by commercial transport planes.

The discovery was made while he was an army professor at Ohio State Universary. Major Webbe candidly explained that the fundamentals used to construct this air bomb are simple physics and many of the first experiments were made by students who worked with him in the laboratory at the university.

To further the contention that these new devices are no mystery, that they are merely a combination of known principles, Major Webbe states that if the old generation of die-hards whose thoughts are not geared to accept the new mechanical means of warfare which Germany has used to such ruthless advantage, would give ear even to the radio "ham" in the country—boys who have "played" with these scientific principles, and to whom such things are not mysterious— we could then compete with the German methods.

Back in the United States Major Webbe is trying to interest industry in seeking newly appropriated government funds for perfection of these radio controlled bombs that will save the lives of thousands of pilots. For as long as the U.S. remains neutral, the government cannot directly sponsor them.

FISHERMEN HIKE FOR THE HIGH SIERRA

President R. C. Lewis of the Sierra Madre Savings Bank spent the Glorious Fourth at his favorite pastime, trout fishing, in his favorite haunts, the High Sierras. Leaving Wednesday he expected to camp far up in the Kings river country and will return Sunday.

Commander Lloyd B. Welch of the local American Legion post and Colin Hill also drove into the High Sierras above Bishop Wednesday in a three-day quest for trout.

clubhouse, until election day. Of course, in those polite days we would not have dreamed of uttering such slang, but mentally we agreed with the slogan Gracie Allen uses in her current presidential campaign over the radio, "It's in the bag." So much so in fact, that several husbands, including my own, were allowed to go to Los Angeles fo rtheir daily grind without bothering to go to the schoolhouse to vote. And the women had no votes then.

About 10 or 11 the first air raid sounded. Some man wandered downtown with the glad tidings that ballots with N. H. Hosmer's name were being distributed and voted, and, perfidy of perfidies, he and his accomplices were hauling votes to the polls with their teams!

There was a food sale for the club downtown that morning and, when in answer to a frenzied telephone call, I went down, I was seriously worried for fear some of my fellow clubwomen might have a stroke, their indignation was so far above the boiling point. After the first shock, I was guilty of seeing some humor in the situation and that wasn't well received either.

To save my friendships, I yielded to demands that I call my husband in Los Angeles and insist he "do sometihng" about it, though I knew enough about elections to feel that the essential thing was already very thoroughly done—and that I was done brown. All the comfort that was vouchsafed from the L.A. end of the line was a howl of unsympathetic laughter, the exclamation, "The old fox!"—and the soothing words, "you're licked, my dear, you're licked to a fare-thee-well!"

That diagnosis was absolutely correct. The totals were about 30 to 1 with me in the one column. A very educational experience!

The explanation put forth by N. H. was that so many came to him insisting that he was needed on the board—that a woman could not handle the job properly—that he was forced to let them use his name! I rather received the impression that the feminine touch held no strong appeal for those voting.

The old man and I remained good friends until his death some years later, though the first time we met after the election he eyed me warily and seemed all set for a quick get-away until he realized my defeat hadn't quite broken my poor little feminine heart!

On another occasion though, the feminine touch came out topside in a brush with the gentleman and I had the pleasure of being the humble instrument that gave him a wildly panicky moment or two before I was squelched.

I think we can refer to the affair as "The Massacre of the Trees," for a massacre it was. In those days there were two rows of magnificent pepper trees the length of Baldwin avenue to the city limits, and those around the Pacific Electric triangle were also very beautiful. I shall never forget the impression made on me when I rode into town on the street car for the first time and we went into what seemed like a bower of green-waving, lacy branches. Those on the east side of Baldwin for the block north of old Central avenue were useful as well as ornamental for, like charity, they covered a multitude of sins. The "business blocks" which decorated that portion of the street then simply can't stand description. There are limits to the adjectives one can use in print. Enough to say that for beauty and attractiveness compared to them the present buildings would rank as replicas of the Taj Mahal.

Well, Southern California was enjoying a boomlet and the "improvement" bug bit some of our citizens. Some hopeful soul, with lots to sell, had a vision of our streets thronged with pedestrians and somehow our city fathers were sold on the idea that what Sierra Madre needed to make it get way out in front of the procession was to have wide sidewalks in the business section—totally unobstructed by trees. You see, some of the crowd might be slowed down by the tree trunks in the mad rush to reach our stores.

New Area Manager Is Appointed By Gas Company

A. E. Madden

The many friends of Justin M. Kennedy, district manager of the Southern Counties Gas Company in Monrovia and surrounding territory for several years, will be sorry to learn that he was transferred from this district July 1st to become manager for the company in the Ventura district. In announcing the transfer, Arthur F. Bridge, vice-president and general manager of the company, stated that Kennedy's superior abilities which have made his managership in Monrovia so successful are required in the northern district.

Kennedy has been succeeded by A. E. Madden, who has served as district superintendent here since 1937, and H. W. Keiser, assistant district superintendent, is promoted to the superintendent's position. Madden, a native Californian and graduate of Whittier College, has been with the company for 16 years.

Hearts Players Stop At Reno Enroute To Tournament

Five well-known Sierra Madre hearts players who stopped at Reno on their way up into Nevada county, California, are in midst of a great tournament up in the wilderness about this time. They left Monday to join their friend "Jim" Hawks, another fan, at his gold mine. The six indulge in their favorite game here regularly and their wives have no idea how long the battle up in the wilds will last. Mr. Hawks went up to his property two weeks ago when he received word that the snow had melted enough to let him in. In the party that has gone to join him are City Treasurer Carl Pegler, Joe Sadler, Emile Smith, Frank Spencer and Gale Martin. "If we are able to find the mine we'll give Jim a name for it," said Pegler, "and hereafter it will be known as the Queen of Spades."

W. L. Burr, Carl Hansen and Judge John Sturgeon of Monrovia, attended a meeting of the All-Year Club, June 25th at the Clark Hotel in Los Angeles. Don Thomas, secretary of the Club, discussed activities in county communities of interest to tourists, among them, the annual Vistaria Fete here in Sierra Madre.

Sunflower Bursts Into Bloom Over 13 Feet Above Ground

Mrs. Clara Akeley of East Alegria avenue has a most unusual sunflower in her yard. The bright orange, dahlia flowered plant is over 13 feet tall. It has grown from seed planted last April. Extremely interesting too, are a pair of Eastern ducks, owned by Mrs. Akeley, who believes them to be the only ones in this part of the country. The Eastern black duck, says Mrs. Akeley, ranks next to the Mallard with epicures.

Seven Vegetables Added To Seasonal Surplus Food List

Continued variety of fresh vegetables for Los Angeles County families taking part in the Food Stamp Plan was assured today with seven vegetables included on the list of those in seasonal surplus and available, with other surplus foods, for blue food stamp purchase during the first three weeks of July. This is the second designation of seasonal surplus vegetables announced by the Deaprtment of Agriculture. Fresh vegtables were first made available under the Food Stamp Plan June 10.

Fresh cabbage, peas, beets, carrots, spinach, tomatoes and snap beans are the fresh vegetables which have been added to or continued on the list of surplus foods, and which will be obtainable through July 21 in local stores in Los Angeles County. All commodities which have been on the surplus list will be continued except fresh oranges.

A. E. Barrett of Morton avenue has just returned from the East where he recently purchased his fall line of dresses. He plans to lave soon on a sales tour of the Western States.
